Debriefing Crisis: Supporting Peers Through Critical Incidents

2 hr. Virtual Session
June 7, 2024
1:00–3:00 pm EDT

With the prevalence of crisis and trauma situations we may feel the need to support colleagues who are struggling. Dealing with clients in crisis is generally something we do, but when it comes to supporting a colleague, we can be cautious: How do we handle these events in the moment? How do we ensure what we say is helpful, but doesn't turn into a "session?" This comprehensive training equips participants with essential skills to support colleagues who are dealing with a crisis. Covering topics ranging from stress management to grief, the program empowers individuals to gain a holistic perspective and know how to respond adeptly with support and care.

This intermediate-level, live virtual course is appropriate for social workers, counselors, psychologists, and other helping professionals.

Participants will be able to:

- Implement a crisis debriefing process.
- Utilize practical techniques to maintain personal well-being during and after crisis events.
- Implement tools to address at least 3 crisis escalation patterns.
- Identify at least 3 strategies to support individuals coping with the shock and ongoing stress associated with crisis situations.

This training is approved for 2 Social Work CE credits.

Note: This course is offered via Zoom for a $10 training fee or $20 with 2 CE credits. A few days prior to the session you will receive connectivity instructions via email. To earn CE credits, participants must attend the session in its entirety, remain on camera, complete an evaluation, and pay the training and CE fees at the time of registration.
