Trends in Child Abuse Prevention & How to Make Them Work Locally

3 hr. virtual session
August 15th from 1 pm–4:15 pm EDT

From Erin's Law to Sex-Wise Parenting, from 'situational awareness' to staff training efforts, innovations in child sexual abuse prevention policy and practice are available to help keep children safer. This workshop will review current innovations in policy and practice, and end with a focus on how professionals working with families can support parents to promote sexual health and safety in their homes and community.

This intermediate level, interactive course is appropriate for social workers, psychologists, and other human services professionals working in sex abuse prevention, policy, and practice. Prevention strategies that span all levels of the social ecology, i.e. individuals, groups, communities, and society will be presented for discussion.

Participants will be able to:

- Describe at least three innovative approaches to sexual abuse prevention, focusing on adult responsibility for child safety and initiatives for youth serving agencies.
- Apply key components of the National Plan to Prevent Child Sexual Abuse and Exploitation into their own community prevention, policy, and practice work.
- Incorporate key information on sexual anatomy, physiology and psychosexual development into their work with families to promote sexual health and safety

This training is approved for 3 Psychologist and Social Work CE credits.

Note: This course is offered via Zoom. A few days prior to the session you will receive connectivity instructions via email. To earn CE credits, participants must attend the session in its entirety, remain on camera, complete an evaluation, and pay the $20 CE fee at time of registration.

About the Trainer:

Janet F. Rosenzweig PhD, MS, MPA

Dr. Janet Rosenzweig earned certification as a sex-educator in 1977 and was recruited to work on one of the first child sexual abuse programs in the US in 1978. She served in high-level government positions in New Jersey, including founding the first Commission on Child Abuse in the state in 1986, as Executive Director of The American Professional Society on the Abuse of Children, as Vice-President for Research and Programs for Prevent Child Abuse America and wrote the book "The Sex-Wise Parent" based on experiences as a sex educator working in sexual abuse prevention. She serves on the Executive Committee of The National Coalition to Prevent Child Sexual Abuse and Exploitation, and as a founding member of The New York State Initiative to Prevent Child Sexual Abuse. She is a Lecturer at The University of Pennsylvania and has provided training across the US incorporating accurate information about human sexuality into work in child sexual abuse and promotes the ideal of parents as primary sexuality educators of their children as a critical protective factor in promoting sexual health and safety, a concept that includes prevention of child sexual abuse.
